FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

Gambetta's Acceptance Causes Much Surmising as to His Course.

Statement of a Gambetta Organ of Ministerial Changes to Occur.

A Quiet Guild Hall Meeting and the Speeches Devoid of Interest.

Reports of the Condition of Affairs in Ireland More Satisfactory.

CONCERNING GAMBETTA'S ELEVATION.

NEW YORK, November 12.—To-morrow's Tribune will have the following:

LONDON, November 12.—Gambetta's acceptance of office elicits a chorus of English approval, mingled with the keen regrets of some of his best friends that he had committed himself to a declaration involving the permanent retention of Tunis and condoning the buccaneering methods of acquisition. They reminded him that the treaty which he declared shall be implicitly executed was extorted at the bayonets and from the lawful ruler for whom France professed friendship. This, says the Spectator, shows that Gambetta by accepting the evil doctrine that French interests override justice and deliberately prefers the prestige and material advantage of France to every other consideration. This gives rise, it says, to grave apprehensions as to his future foreign policy.

Other journals remark that Bismarck's defeat at the general elections encouraged France to persevere in a policy which good sense and equity alike condemn. Clemenceau's powerful speeches were an unanswerable exposure of the iniquities of the Tunis expedition and had produced a great impression in England. People here hoped that Gambetta regardless of the rivalry between himself and Clemenceau would take a similar line. Nevertheless there is general satisfaction expressed that Gambetta who has been so long wielding the real power now accepts the responsibility. The English hope also that his accession will improve the chance of the new commercial treaty.

BISMARCK TALKS OF RESIGNING AGAIN.

The best German authority represents Bismarck as sincerely resolved on resignation. The emperor resists, hoping for an arrangement with Rome under which the ultramontanes may support Bismarck in the German parliament without asking for the repeal of the anti-Catholic laws, which Bismarck steadily refuses to propose. The English Catholics say that no movement could be so favorable for negotiation with the pope, considering he cannot depend on Austria. The same reason is urged for soliciting the renewal of diplomatic relations between England and the Vatican.

A GREAT BANQUET.

No Guild hall banquet in recent years has passed off so tamely as Wednesday's. The speeches were wholly free from sensational interest and were listened to with scant politeness by the audience present and have produced little effect on the general public. Gladstone's speech contained but two points, and neither of them new. He reaffirmed his resolution to enforce the law in Ireland. He took no notice of the challenge from many quarters to state his views of the working of the land act. Liberal journals throughout the country agree that it would be unnecessary and indecorous for him to offer ministerial defense for the proceedings which are judicial or quasi-judicial. The Irish league organs complain of the emptiness of the speech and the absence of any indications of Gladstone's future policy or of the duration of the present repression. The conservative Irish press admits that Gladstone is entitled to congratulate himself on the restoration of the authority of the law. English tories of a more violent kind threaten to resist every measure for the suppressing of obstruction in the house and privately assert that Sir Stafford Northcote has already yielded to the pressure from the turbulent spirits of the party who are practically pledged to oppose the ministerial proposals. The lord mayor, himself a tory, failed in an attempt to draw from Gladstone a statement as to his plan of dealing with the municipal jobbery and corruption which the corporation as now organized is determined to perpetuate. Granville's reference to Gladstone is understood to have been intended to dispose finally of his resignation. American topics occupied nearly half of Granville's speech and he displayed marked friendliness throughout.

THE LAND COURT.

decisions during the week follow similar lines to those previously reported. No case has yet been reported in which the tenant establishing a plausible claim has failed to obtain a large reduction in rent. The principles laid down in the Crawford cases have been steadily acted on by the other commissions. Tenants' applications increase daily, and four thousand were received yesterday. The story telegraphed to America and re-telegraphed here, that tenants almost unanimously refuse to pay rent is untrue, but many tenants where league agents still exercise a pressure refuse and "boycotting" still exists. The lawlessness and dishonesty steadily inculcated for two years do not disappear instantly, but while the testimony varies as to various parts of Ireland, rents are undoubtedly paid in the large districts. Landlords who know Ireland best consider that the proportion of payments will increase largely during the winter. The substantial failure of the "no-rent" manifesto and Croke's testimony sufficiently indicate that generally where rent is withheld it is not considered as withheld in abeyance of Kilmainham dictation.

SOCIALISTS DEFEATED.

BERLIN, November 12.—Bismarck has arrived. In the second ballot for members of the reichstag in two districts of this city the progressionists, Frieger and Klotz, defeated the socialists, Bebel and Hazenclever, by narrow majorities.

THE TOBACCO BILL IS GERMANY.

BERLIN, November 12.—The Post says: Results of the supplementary elections for members of the reichstag up to the present, demonstrate more and more that it will be impossible for the government, even assisted by the clericals, to pass the tobacco monopoly bill.

SPANISH AFFAIRS.

MADRID, November 12.—In the senate to-day the marquis of Sceane announced an interpellation relative to the executive control of the Panama canal claimed by the United States government and the attitude of Spain in relation thereto. In the chamber of deputies Premier Sagasta said he intended to observe the principles of the constitution of 1876 interpreted in a liberal sense. If modifications were necessary they would only be made after the most careful consideration because Spain had to deplore two calamities of civil war and too frequent changes of the constitution.

FRENCH MINISTERIAL CHANGES.

PARIS, November 12.—A Gambettist journal, Le Paris, says Gambetta will be premier without portfolio, Carset minister of justice, Waideck Rossem interior, Defreycient foreign affairs, Paul Bert public instruction, Barrier agriculture and commerce and Cochery posts and telegraph. Nothing will be decided respecting the ministers of war, marine and finance. Leon Say will probably not join the cabinet. Spuller will be the under secretary of foreign affairs.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

A Rowing Boat Filled with Workmen Capsized Near Troy.

TROY, November 12.—At about six o'clock this evening a large skiff owned by Giles Leroy, of Port Schuyler, drew up at Burden's wharf on this side of the river to take residents of West Troy employed at Burden's mills to their homes. The night was dark and owing to a strong south wind and recent rains the waves were of unusual height and the river very high. As near as can be learned the following persons were in the skiff: Giles Leroy, Henry Hisson, Francis Reilly, Garrett Hisson, Thomas Manion and his son Thomas, John Severe, Thomas Fox, John Stevenson, John Key's, Milo Hatch, George Hay, Fleming Trimble, James Diamond, W. Oneil, Michael McMahon, and three others whose names were not ascertained. When the boat had almost reached the middle of the river Thomas Fox, who was sitting in the stern saw three propellers rapidly approaching from the south. He called to the oarsmen to stop but they failed to do so and the propeller nearest to the west shore passed by within a few feet of the bow of the skiff. The latter, which all agree was overloaded having the gunwales nearly even with the water, passed the first swell in safety but on reaching the second shipped considerable water. The third almost filled the boat and the occupants became greatly alarmed. The men, aware that the boat would sink, called for assistance and one of the propellers, the Cora, turned around but the others continued on their course. The Cora steamed slowly towards the skiff but before she could reach it the boat had capsized and all the men were struggling in the water. Thos. Fox being unable to swim grasped the keel of the skiff and called to his associates. Following his example several of them did so and held on till the Cora drew alongside. On board the Cora were John Kennedy and Charles Pickett and his brother. The last named, although but fourteen years of age, displayed great bravery and wonderful presence of mind. Calling on the men who were hanging on the capsized skiff to hold fast he threw life preservers right and left to their less-fortunate companions and then bracing himself against the side of the tug pulled in John Lever who weighed about 170 pounds. The following men were then picked up by the Cora: Thos. Fox, John Lever, John Stevenson, Garrett Reilly, Thos. Manion, jr., and two strangers whose names it was impossible to ascertain. By this time several rowboats had reached the scene and Fleming Trimble, Milo Hatch, Michael McMahon and William O'Neil were picked up, Trimble being almost dead. The following are known to be lost: Giles Leroy, the ferryman, and his son Henry; Francis Reilly, teamster, who leaves a wife and eleven children; Thomas Manion, sr., blacksmith helper, who leaves a wife and five children; John Kris, laborer, who leaves a large family; George Hay, a single man about 25 years of age, and James Diamond, a married man with no children. Three others are unaccounted for. Mrs. Leroy, who has been dangerously ill a long time, and is not expected to live forty-eight hours, has not yet been told of the loss of her husband and son. Mr. Manion buried a daughter only three weeks ago. While it is admitted that the skiff was overloaded it is also agreed that the propellers had no lights on their bows, and that the tugs Cora and Billie M. Betts and Linda W. Newman were racing when the accident occurred. Captain Harvey Robinson of the Betts, and the captain of the Newman, when asked why they did not stop, said they did not hear the cries for assistance and did not learn of the accident until an hour after it occurred.

A Prize Fight.

NEW YORK, November 12.—Frank W. White, of New York, and George Holden and their backers met to-day to make final arrangements for a prize fight for $5,000 and the feather-weight championship. America, Long Point, the famous battle ground of the fight between John C. Heenan and John Morrissey was chosen as the place of meeting, and Wednesday, the 16th inst., is the day appointed for the contest. It is understood that Patsy Sheppard and Billy Edwards will second White, while Dooney, Harris and Arthur Chambers will second Holden. The pugilists leave to-morrow night for Erie, Pa., where boats will carry them to the battle grounds.

CONFEDERATE BONDS.

What has Been Done to Obtain Them.

NEW YORK, November 12.—The Tribune says of the history of the attempt by the government to get possession of the assets belonging to the confederate government abroad that these assets are the same as those on which the recent speculation in confederate bonds was based. Various contracts appear to have been made at Washington within the past twenty years to pay liberally for any such property reserved and turned over to the United States, but the result to the government has thus far amounted to only $5,000. The "fund" applicable to the payment of the bonds can hardly be a large one. The recovery of this $5,000 even required a gigantic effort, a 50 per cent. contract and the services of a commissioner and a treasury agent who between them collected the confederate property which brought $100,000. From this they were obliged to deduct $95,000 for the expenses of collection and a rival contractor is said to claim that this recovery was made on evidence for which he is entitled to be paid so that it is too early to feel sure how the government is going to come out in the end. The inventory of assets show they are deposited to the credit of the rebel government in Vienna, Brussels and Frankfort on the Main, Amsterdam, Paris and London. It is of course a little strange that with twenty years of searching and contracting none of it should ever turn up but this probably was because the contractors kept devoting their attention to other assets such as item number 2,480, chronometers the spoils of the Florida and Alabama, and item number 17, postage stamps, a portion of which are now in a bank in Canada.

STOCK AND TRADE

In New York as Reported for the Last Week.

THE STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, November 12.—The Bulletin says of the stock market that it considers the decline a healthful reaction not likely to interfere materially with the upward movement. Leading bears, however, think the market will weaken considerably, and say there are indications of fresh trouble between the trunk lines, as Vanderbilt is following a somewhat more bearish course and the general feeling is unsettled. Keene and Woerishoffer were buyers of stock yesterday. London bought a little in this market yesterday. Amsterdam bought Erie and Texas. The demand for good bonds is increasing daily. The short interest in the market is increasing. There is a good borrowing demand for Erie, Wabash common and preferred.

A QUIET TRADE WEEK.

NEW YORK, November 12.—Business in the general markets the past week has been rather light owing to the occurrence of the annual election as well as to the unfavorable weather. Prices as a general thing have been steady for most commodities.

THE MINING MARKET.

NEW YORK, November 12.—The Mining Associated Press says: Mining stocks are active and irregular to-day. The main interest centered in the South Pacific, which declined from 8.75 to 7.25 and closed at 8.00. This stock is becoming a favorite by reason of its rapid fluctuations and expectation of further advances. Robinson is also largely dealt in and declined from 10.70 to 10.13. The State Line and Oriental and Miller are comparatively dull and weak, showing slight declines at the closing. Green Mountain advanced to 3.20. Total sales at both exchanges was 115,663 shares.

PATTI'S GIFT.

She Will Give a Concert in Aid of the Michigan Sufferers.

NEW YORK, November 12.—Adelina Patti has consented to give a concert Wednesday next the proceeds to go to the Michigan relief fund; the concert to be under the auspices of the mayors' committee on the Michigan relief fund. The following is the form of the invitation to the concert telegraphed to the gentlemen whose names are appended:

The mayor of the New York committee for the relief of the sufferers by the Michigan fire, has the honor to invite you to a benefit concert to be given by Madame Adelina Patti, Wednesday evening at Steinway Hall. It is decided to be a national welcome to America's great and generous prima donna. Formal invitation by mail. [Signed] George X. Sanders, chairman. Percy Belmont, secretary.

The above was sent to President Arthur and members of the cabinet, General Sherman, Major General Wright, Admiral Porter, Chief Justice Waite and associate justices, Governor Cornell and judges of the court of appeals, the governors of Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Connecticut and Delaware, Senators Bayard, the mayors of Boston, Philadelphia, Trenton and Baltimore.

A NEW DISCOVERY.

By a Minnesota Man, of Lead and Silver.

CHICAGO, November 12.—Neil Gillis, of Stillwater, Minn., who has spent several years in the pine and mineral region of Northern Wisconsin and Michigan some time ago, discovered a vein in Ontonagon county, on the survey of the Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western railway, which assays sixty per cent. lead and fifteen ounces silver to the ton. He and his associates, embracing prominent capitalists of Minnesota and Wisconsin, purchased forty acres from the government and also purchased two adjoining forties at $15,000. Arrangements are pending for the formation of a syndicate in which Milwaukee capitalists and several heavy capitalists of Boston and Stillwater will be represented for the purpose of purchasing between one hundred and two hundred sections of land in the vicinity. All of it is supposed to be rich in mineral. Mr. Gillis estimates the value of the first forty located at $100,000.

A Draw Shoot.

LONDON, November 12.—In the gun club pigeon shooting match to-day between Dr. Carver and Mr. Archer, £100 a side, the result was a draw, each killing 19 out of 25.

COAL AND IRON.

A Visit to the Works of the Colorado Coal and Iron Co.

Some Facts and Figures Concerning One of Colorado's Most Important Enterprises.

From a Special Correspondent of the GAZETTE.

COLORADO SPRINGS, November 12th, 1881.—It was lately my privilege to visit the works of the Colorado Coal and Iron company now in course of erection at South Pueblo. This enterprise, which is about to become a factor second to none in importance in the material development of the far west, has an interesting history. The idea of making iron and steel at the base of the Rocky mountains was early entertained by the men who had undertaken to develop Colorado. As early as 1870, when the Denver & Rio Grande Railway company, the Central Colorado Improvement company, the Southern Colorado Coal and Town company, and other kindred corporations were projected, the erection of a blast furnace somewhere in the Arkansas valley was contemplated, and the town of Labran, a short distance from Cañon City and the outlet of the Cañon coal fields, was named as its possible location.

All this, however, was then regarded only as a future probability; but the future then anticipated came sooner than it could in reason have been expected. In 1879, the several companies organized to develop different parts of Colorado were consolidated into the Colorado Coal and Iron company, and, the time being ripe, the great enterprise of building an iron and steel works in the Rocky Mountain region was inaugurated. Later developments had pointed to South Pueblo as the most desirable place for the works; and here, upon the mesa one mile south of town, they were begun in the winter of 1879-80.

The active spirit in the enterprise and its responsible head was Gen. Wm. J. Palmer, president of the company, the railway magnate of the far west, and a man who has been eminently successful in his undertakings, many of which have been of a bold and original character. Associated with him as advisers in the inception of the steel works project were Dr. Robt. H. Lamborn, a theoretical metallurgist, and with practical experience gained in the erection of the Pennsylvania Steel Co.'s works, near Harrisburg, Chas. D. Lamborn, vice president and financial manager of the company; and W. W. Taylor, who took the initiatory steps in the construction. Ground was broken early in 1880; and in March of that year when I visited the place, the foundations of the furnace and stacks were being dug, and a few rough dwellings erected. From that time till the present all has been activity, coupled with a lavish expenditure of money; and the result to-day is a blast furnace producing 80 tons of pig iron every 24 hours, and a Bessemer steel works so far advanced that in less than three months the first steel rail produced in Colorado will be rolled.

In the construction of these works every improvement in metallurgic science has been made available, so that in all their details they are fitted to secure the highest possibilities in the economic production of iron and steel. The furnace, which was successfully blown in on September 4th last, is 65 feet high, and of a nominal capacity of 100 tons per day; though the results thus far obtained are so exceptionally good that it is thought that 110 to 115 tons per day may be produced. It is completely self-contained by which is meant that the gases generated in the furnace are applied to the heating of the blast in the tall cylinders, or "stoves" as they are technically called; and in addition, through the medium of proper boilers, to the generation of steam for the blowing engine. The latter is of 500-horse power, of the Corliss type, and was built by I. P. Morris & Co., of Philadelphia. It stands about 40 feet high, is of 42-inch cylinder and 7 feet stroke, and its two ponderous driving wheels, each 24 feet in diameter, have a combined weight of 50 tons. All the buildings enclosing this machinery are build of brick in the most substantial manner, and the brick themselves are manufactured at the works. A twin furnace is to be at once erected, with its complement of engine, boilers and stoves; while the complete plans of the company, embracing a second pair of furnaces, are sure of speedy completion.

The Bessemer steel converting works are in an advanced state and wait only the arrival of some machinery for their completion. Two converters, with a capacity of 200 tons of steel per day, are being properly housed. The rolling and rail mill will be 450 feet long and 60 feet wide, and is equipped with Siemian's heating furnaces, heavy blooming mill, and rail train made by James Moore, of Philadelphia. The steel converting plant is almost identical with that of the Pittsburg Bessemer Steel company's works, from which exceptionally good results have been obtained. It is hoped that in practice the molten pig iron can be conveyed direct from the blast furnace to the converters, thus obviating the necessity of re-melting in cupolas—a plan which has been successfully followed abroad, but as yet untried in this country. The motive power in the converting rooms will be supplied from hydraulic accumulators, and the motions of converters, cranes and ladles controlled by a single hand. Altogether, the machinery appliances and general arrangements are fully abreast with the times, and must secure results equal to any works in the country. In connection with the steel plant the company is likewise erecting a nail mill which shall be fully able to supply the present prospective demand. A machine shop and foundry have been in operation for some time, and most of the castings used in constructions are already made.

What gives additional significance to this iron and steel works project is the fact that native iron ore is being reduced by native coal, to supply a home demand. Coal and iron ore exist in large quantities practically in the vicinity of South Pueblo, and the company early secured the lands covering the most important deposits. At present three iron mines are being opened, located respectively at Placer, in the Sangre de Cristo range, at Calumet on the South Arkansas and at Hot Springs in San Luis Park. These ores run from 55 to 65 per cent. metallic iron and are exceptionally free from phosphorus. The mines are being opened as rapidly as possible, but as yet the supply of ore is insufficient to run the single furnace to its fullest capacity. Limestone for flux is found in inexhaustible quantity only seven miles from the works. To reduce these ores, large deposits of coking coal are available, the most important of which at present is at El Moro, eighty-six miles south of the steel works. These mines—which are likewise owned by the Coal & Iron company—were opened some years ago, and during 1880 produced 81,697 tons of coal, 50,000 of which were converted into coke in the company's ovens. This output has been largely increased to meet the new demand. The coke is of an excellent quality, almost if not quite as good as the celebrated Connellsville. Even better coke, it is expected, will be produced at the company's new works at Crested Butte, in the Gunnison, now being vigorously pushed.

In the successful erection and starting of the blast furnace, perhaps the most credit is due to Mr. J. W. Crowther, of Pittsburg, who still remains at the works in the capacity of superintendent of furnaces. The general superintendent of the works is Mr. D. N. Jones, for many years with the Cambria Iron company, at Johnstown, Penn.; a thoroughly capable and experienced man. The general manager of the Coal and Iron company, which controls besides the steel works, the various iron and coal mines and coke works, and the Denver Rolling mill at Denver, is Mr. A. H. Danforth.

The magnitude of these works can scarcely be realized without a visit. Situated on the open mesa, with only mountain peaks and the out-stretching plains in sight, they form a unique spectacle which every visitor must appreciate. Already a town of 800 inhabitants has sprung up by their side, of neat and often ornamental frame cottages and many substantial brick buildings, all of which have been erected by the company. At present about 500 men are employed at the works; and by January 1st, 1882, when the first steel rail will be rolled, the enterprise will have cost the Colorado Coal and Iron company a round million of dollars. The erection of these works must make a turning point in the economy of the Rocky Mountain region. High freights have added enormously to the cost of all iron and steel goods; and now they will be manufactured at our doors. The present demand in Colorado is 40 tons of pig iron per day, 10 to 15 tons of bar iron per day and 50,000 kegs of nails per annum. How greatly this demand will be increased when stove works, car wheel works, iron pipe foundries, mining machinery works, and all the industries that follow in the train of the blast furnace and steel works shall have been erected at South Pueblo, can scarcely be estimated; and all these are certainties in the near future. It is perhaps not too much to say that the most important day in Colorado's history within the last decade, was September 6, 1881, when the first stream of molten iron was run into the sand at South Pueblo. DISTRICT COURT.

Judge Helm Passes Sentence on a Number of Criminals.

The morning session of the district court yesterday was given entirely to the disposition of civil cases. The following were called and acted upon:

In No. 610, Wilbur vs. Maryland, leave was given to file motion for a new trial, leave was also given defendant to file motion in arrest of judgment.

No. 750, James A. Walker vs. Emily Walker, divorce case. Report of referee filed. Defendant given till Monday next at 10 o'clock a. m. to file exception to report.

No. 735, Helen L. Ballou vs. Leonard S. Ballou—divorce case. Report of referee filed.

No. 107, Lynch vs. Lynch. Report of referee confirmed and decree approved and made the decree of the court.

No. 774, J. D. Woodruff vs. G. R. Gwillim, Williams for defendant. Cause dismissed on motion of defendant for want of prosecution.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The criminals confined in the county jail against whom the grand jury had found bills of indictment were arraigned for a hearing.

The case of the people against Hawley, Pulten et al. was first called. These defendants it will be remembered were charged with being implicated in the assault on Mr. Erickson last winter. The case was set down for trial on Monday morning.

In the case of the people vs. Albert Beatty and Edward Elsweaver the defendants failed to appear and their recognizance was forfeited.

Charles Hughes was then arraigned, the charge against him being that of grand larceny. He plead not guilty, and as he declared that he was pecuniarily unable to employ an attorney, Judge Helm assigned C. C. Holbrook to defend him. Hughes subsequently withdrew his plea of not guilty and a plea of guilty was entered. He was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

James Martin, the man who last spring drove off a herd of sheep from Austin's ranch, east of the city, a full account of which appeared at the time in the GAZETTE, plead guilty, and when asked if he had any reason to give why sentence should not be passed upon him he replied, "No." An appeal was made to the judge for a lenient sentence in behalf of the defendant, he having had an irreproachable reputation previous to the committal of the rash act which made him a criminal in the eyes of the law. Even the prosecuting witness himself joined in recommending leniency. The judge sentenced him to one year's confinement in the penitentiary, it being the lightest sentence allowable for grand larceny.

Prosecuting Attorney Ballinger next read the indictments against John Dean and Frank Rollins, charged with the larceny of jewelry and other articles from the residence of Captain Burnham some weeks ago. Dean plead guilty and was sentenced to two years confinement at hard labor. Rollins plead not guilty and Judge Cochran was assigned to defend him. Prosecuting Attorney Ballinger afterward stated to the judge that he did not think that the evidence against Rollins would warrant a trial, and he was discharged from custody.

Louis Cole, Dave Robertson and Anderson Petty, the three colored boys, aged respectively 14, 15 and 17, who stole the money from R. B. Posey's till, were arraigned and all plead guilty. Cole, the older one, was sentenced to eighteen months, and the two others to one year each.

Wm. Laitey and Charles Tullis plead not guilty to the theft of Mr. J. P. Easterly's satchel, and their case was set for trial on Monday. Attorneys Barnes and Cochran were requested to defend them.

Shire Birely, charged with assault with intent to do bodily injury, was called. He plead not guilty, and his trial was set for Monday.

The grand jury reported that they had completed their work, and the judge in discharging them thanked them for the dispatch and care which they had displayed in the discharge of their duties.

The grand jury while in session visited the county jail, and before leaving the court room handed the following report to Judge Helm, which is very complimentary to Sheriff Smith:

To His Honor Judge Helm:

The grand jury sitting for the November term of the district court in El Paso county having visited the jail of said county respectfully beg leave to report that they find said jail in an eminently tidy condition, and the prisoners well cared for; in fact, they find nothing in the management to criticise. It was apparent, however, to the jury that the keeper's quarters are too circumscribed in number, and that means should be provided to remedy this by the enlargement of the main building, which they earnestly recommend. S. C. STOUT, Foreman.

ADDENDA.—The jury wish to emphasize the fact that they found the cells in the jail comfortable and clean, and vastly superior in every respect to the rooms provided for the jurors. S. C. STOUT, Foreman.

OUT WEST.

Sleighing at Denver.

Not a miner in Idaho is out of work.

Hay is worth $48 a ton at Buena Vista.

Gunnison City proposes to have a free reading room.

An explosion of dynamite destroyed four houses at Red Cliff Friday.

The corner stone of the new city hall at Denver was laid yesterday.

It is proposed to build another bridge across the Arkansas at Cañon City.

A rich strike is reported in the Cushing mine near the Adelaide, Leadville.

The ore output of Clear Creek county will be double that of any previous year.

The Link Silver Mining company of Lake City incorporated Friday. Capital $3,500,000.

Two new trains have been put on the D. & R. G. to run between Denver and Espanola.

A building is soon to be erected at South Pueblo for the manufacturing of giant powder.

Disaster on Lake Erie.

BUFFALO, November 12. The schooner Carlingford, with wheat from Duluth for Buffalo, and the steam barge Brunswick, bound up the lakes with 15,000 bushels of coal from Buffalo, collided when off Port Colborne this morning, both sinking soon after. The crew of the Carlingford, consisting of Captain Holmes and six men, escaped after a pull of twenty miles in a rough sea, with the exception of a sailor named Edward Conway who ran back after something while the vessel was sinking. Three of the crew of the Brunswick were also lost. The Brunswick was valued at $100,000; insured for $70,000. The Carlingford was insured for $20,000 and the cargo of wheat for $35,000.

Denver News.

DENVER, November 12.—The Fannie Louise Buckingham troupe disbanded here this morning.

The corner stone of the city hall was laid this afternoon under the auspices of the grand lodge of A. F. and A. M.

It was a capital defeat.

Peter Hackett is rambling so fast all over his letter in Lake's mind that he was the most popular candidate on his ticket.

It is pleasant to read the beautiful obituary notices of Denver friends give us on the capital defeat. The Times says: There is no denying the fact that Colorado Springs would furnish an excellent site for the state capital.

The Register calls for the removal of the capital right away. We will do so. Pass for all the public buildings we have got, and not get put in a bill for pressing the button on the organ in committee. We can speak for Denver boys over.

The Pueblo Chieftain gives it up on the capital deal. The returns of the capital vote are first and unofficial. At last advices Denver seemed to be ahead and the indications are that she will be elected by two or three hundred thousand majority.

The News has been for a few weeks past advocating an independent municipal ticket, a reform sort of a ticket, in the interest, it makes authoritatively out of the whole. The term "independent" may mean what it implies in the original sense. It may also mean your Chinaside counterfeit.

Pueblo should cheer up. We will have an even chance at Arapahoe on the sectional fight. There may be some sectional candidates next year who will ask for support from the south. We shall ask them how they and their friends voted on the capital question. If north that is all over with the fourteen Cressmans and now the capital. It is hot for its friends now. Pue.

The Denver Post-Tribune still favors the Union Block for the coveted position. This seems to be by far the most reasonable location for the capital. Senator Charles was the leading spirit in the fight, claiming we unite and made people in the east think we are all swindlers. They will have a right to think this of Senator Charles receives my political honors from Colorado.

CHANGE IN THE ENGLISH CONSTITUTION

Henry Labouchere has suggested the Peel to three parliaments, one in England one in Scotland and one in Ireland to legislate on all local matters and also that there shall be an imperial parliament which shall have representatives of the three countries and shall legislate on what we would call interstate affairs and foreign affairs. This is an eminently good thing and will undoubtedly receive attention. English constitutional development has been a steady growth in proportion to the intellectual, moral and social growth of the people. England has had less revolution than other countries, because her political institutions have been frequently modified to meet the requirements of the day. This will prove true in the future. There are likely to be great changes in the form of English government within the next fifty years but these changes will be marked by neither violent revolution of bloodshed. The good sense of the people, the ability of the political student, and the average patriotism of the leaders will devise and adopt changes which will prevent harsher measures.

The change Labouchere suggests above is eminently the most practicable provided there can be an adjustment of powers which shall prevent friction between the three countries and also between each country and the imperial government. Our own constitution has probably suggested this idea to Labouchere. We have an almost perfect adjustment of powers. Colorado cannot enact a law which shall injure the people of Kansas or usurp any power of the general government. The adjustment is such that there is hardly any friction, nor is there thought of making any. There have been jealous feelings towards settlers, but none between state and state, and none between state and general government, except what has grown out of the war of the rebellion. It certainly would seem to be as easy to make this adjustment to England, Ireland and Scotland as it was for the thirteen states. Certainly there is not as much difference in race, religion, habits, ities and intelligence, as the countries now making Great Britain. Of course this would involve many changes in the English constitution, and demand above all that it be written exact and comprehensive. But England certainly has courage and ability enough to do this with the experience of this country. It will seem strange for England to borrow political ideas and institutions from us but this would not be unnatural. We borrowed liberally from the English constitution, but went further and met this question of local state government which is now before England. We have applied the principles of the British constitution to a problem which England has not yet solved, but must.

There is reason to such a constitutional [illegible] getting the characters in his novel and the scenes in which he has placed them. But familiarity with the writer proves that this very abruptness has a charm of its own peculiar to Bjornson. There is never a waste of words. Each one appears to have been carefully selected, and as a result there is presented a novel which is not only highly dramatic but is easy graceful, vigorous and sweet in its apparent simplicity. The author takes his reader among the Norwegian people. He introduces us to their homes, manners, loves and passions, and to the scenery characteristic of the places they live in. The novel be is perfect writer. He tells us of the quiet home scenes the simple lives and the common passions of the Norwegians, with the result of letting us with his witness, of making us better acquainted with his people and his country while he holds our attention with his story. Peasant life is delightfully unfolded. We recognize in reading the novel that the author loves his people and their homes and that he is a poet as well as a novelist. His pathos is always held in reserve, as it seems and there is behind all his story and his descriptions a gentle humor and drama the power which stamp the author as a genius.

The story of Arne is not one where there is always sunshine. It begins darkly, but it ends brightly. There is storm, death and sorrow at first, and then there follows peace and love. Arne is born under a shadow, and for a time he lives under it. Filled with the thought of his own inferiority he prefers to be alone tending his sheep. He loves the fields and mountains and nature so teaches him that he becomes poetical and for his own amusement composes songs which sing of the herds and the hills. While his father lives, who is a drunken, ill tempered man, Arne and his mother Margit suffer greatly, and Margit especially is severely punished for her early sin by Arne himself. The boy is led on by the father into trying his mother, though all the time his heart tells him he is wrong. When Nils dies then Arne under the power of filial principle turns toward his mother and becomes all devotion. It is in describing this change in Arne that the author is the

Review of New Books Received from the Publishers

THE BJORNSTJERNE BJORNSON PUBLICATIONS

Estes & Lauriat, Boston By Bjornstjerne Bjornson The above mentioned firm of Boston and New York is doing all literary world a real service by publishing translations by Professor Anderson of Bjornstjerne Bjornson's novels. The translator is one well qualified in every respect to give us work to Bjornson novels as shall bring out the beauties of the Norwegian novelist. Every style. Proses or Andersen is so thoroughly familiar with the Norse language that instrumentalists may safely trust the characteristics of the author and the result is that the American readers can get Bjorn as almost as thoroughly as they could with Oxy Lee. The novels in their original language. Prose or Anderson is never tiresome and as the Bjornson translations have taken years to complete for notes many of the customs which the novelist describes of many words which are not in the dictionaries English.

The second of these translations of the best known of Bjornson's novels confirms the opinions expressed in regard to the first, that the works of the celebrated Norwegian author are well worth being placed before American readers. The volume just published is Arne, and is perhaps the best known of all the author's novels. It is more than a novel and is rather a representative Norse classic. It is original in plot and conception, fresh and vigorous and lots woven with the story itself an descriptions of homes national scenery, people and customs which are minute, vivid, and in the highest degree picturesque. It will undoubtedly take American readers some time to fully understand and appreciate the literary style of the author, he is so terse at times to become almost abrupt, and condenses in a short space what he has to say regarding the characters in his novel and the scenes in which he has placed them. But familiarity with the writer proves that this very abruptness has a charm of its own peculiar to Bjornson. There is never a waste of words. In addition to the above mentioned books, the Art of Dressing well is a book on [illegible] dressing with its ideas on Paris and home suits and with less expensive ones. The book contains seventy four illustrations.

There is to be a new version in simple terms of the tales told by the Persian poet Firdusi in his famous epic Shah Nameh. Mr. Alma Tadema will furnish four or some illustrative etchings and Mr. Edmund W. Gosse an introductory poem.

Professor Colvin intends to follow up his life of Landor with a volume of selections from Landor's writings for Macmillan's Golden Treasury Series, for which charming series a new edition of Thomas Browne's Religio Medici is also preparing.

Scribner, Welford and Armstrong have in press a book of anecdotes full of character, The Comic Histories of England and Rome, by G. A. A Becker. It is illustrated by John Leech with nearly four hundred engravings on steel and wood, on Japanese paper. The wood engravings are in the text in black and red, the steel engravings are mounted on plate paper and handsomely bound. The work is complete in three volumes.

So soon as the number of a magazine on the new side that succeeds them another one is being made ready. Although the November Harper has only just started on its travels the December number is almost all in type. It will contain among other things Sam Ayers's London humor as told by a public New England tale by Miss Sally McLean, the author Cape Cod Folks and a poem by T. B. Aldrich illustrated by Alice Barber, who has just returned to New York after several years residence in London.

Among the most important publications of the present season will be The Memoirs of Count Miot de Melito, who, from his intimate relations with Napoleon, to Josephine, Danton and other notorious characters of his time is able to throw new light on many of the events connected with the French revolution. The fresh and valuable information given and the entertaining and graphic way in which the many stirring episodes of the period are recounted make the work, it is said, not second in interest to the Talleyrand and Metternich memoirs.

Macmillan & Co. have just brought out a new edition of Charlotte M. Yonge's Noy le and Tales with Illustrations by Kate Greenaway, Herbert Gandy, and others. Philip Gilbert Hamerton's [illegible] Arts addressed to Macmillan will be eagerly welcomed by lovers of art. Mr. Hamerton has had exceptional advantages for gathering material for a work of this kind, and has become minutely acquainted with the various processes of reproduction and their respective merits. The work is profusely illustrated with all kinds of engraving and most kinds of drawing. Only a limited number of copies are reserved for America.

A. C. Armstrong & Son have in preparation a superb art book, Raphael, His Life, His Works and His Times, from the French of Eugene Muntz. It contains one hundred and fifty-five illustrations, and forty-five full-page plates, all reproductions by the first artists of Europe, from the drawing of Raphael that look as living and [illegible] and the Engraving is said to be [illegible] French artists of [illegible]. The great picture, Mac Bloomer, which this firm has ready for the fall trade, is said to depict some incidents in the childhood of Queen Victoria, her coronation in May. A number of the pictures which are very artistic in color and design, are portraits of Her Majesty at various ages.

Regimental Dogs

Daily News

A French paper has been filling up its space in favor of every humble yet interesting section of the military establishment—regimental dogs. Formerly almost every battalion or cavalry squadron of the French army had its pet dog, an animal who belonged to nobody in particular but who contrived to serve his many masters with fidelity and zeal. We recollect a fine Alsatian described by Erckmann-Chatrian, the daughter of an old sergeant of artillery, there are two old men play these characters with whom Madame Sans-Gêne is [illegible]. He tells how the losses were [illegible] by the death of their favorite.

Whittier birthday book. This exquisite books have lately been published and one of them the The Whittier Birthday Book is now before us. This is a companion volume to the Longfellow Birthday Book and the Lowell Birthday Book. In these books there are selected passages taken from the works of the three very popular authors which are arranged for the left hand pages on particular dates which [illegible] every day in the year. Each left hand page gives place for two days, and on this are arranged the selections from the authors. On the right hand page is under corresponding dates to those found on the left are the names of distinguished persons born on that day and also the record of notable events that occurred. In some cases these several quotations on the left hand page refer to the name or especial mention of the right. There is also a space left on the right hand page and under each date for the name of friends born on that day. The volumes are small size and the publishers have shown much taste in the bindings, which are appropriately stamped. Each book has a fine portrait of the author and twelve illustrations carefully executed. Whittier book is arranged by Elizabeth S. Owens and she has done her work well. The selections are carefully made, much to old names to those who should not be forgotten. The reading matter is very desirable and we fancy the lovers of the [illegible] as well as those who are no friends to the poets will find much pleasure in using the selection. The books in parts are appropriate as gift books.

Temperance Lesson Books in Schools

The Otago, (New Zealand) Mail, in an article on temperance in the schools of that far off country, says Temperance reformers should fight unceasingly till they see Dr Richardson's Temperance Lesson Book in every school throughout the colony At every election whether for a representative in a school committee an education board or in parliament, a candidate should be pledged to use his utmost endeavors to secure the admission of this lesson book into our public schools, or be rejected We must not allow ourselves to be scared by the book's title or by a review of its advocates Dr Richardson's is a physiological work, and temperance reformers in championing it are acting more reasonably than they have ever done before Every mail to whom the welfare of the colony is dear—who loves his adopted country and his children should join his voice with theirs We are told that this book advocates the principles of one class, that it is inimical to the interests of another, and that, therefore it should not in any way be countenanced by the state It is true that, from a physician's point of view, it explains the effect of alcoholic drinks upon the system, and utters warnings against indulgence thereby Surely there can be no harm in a book that teaches these things If our school children are not to be taught to avoid those things which are physical, moral, and social poison, what in physiology are they to be taught? That temperance advocates champion the book is no better reason for its rejection than that it is unreasonably hated by those who live by the liquor traffic and their sympathizers If Dr Richardson's statements as to the effect of indulgence are correct—and we see no reason to doubt that they are—it is more imperative that the rising generation should be made aware of them than of any thing else now comprised in the curriculum

OZONE

A New Process for Preserving all Perishable Articles Animal and Vegetable, from Fermentation and Putrefaction, Retaining their Odor and Flavor

OZONE Purified or active state of oxygen Webster

This preservative is neither brine pickle or any of the [illegible] but is simply and purely OZONE as prepared and applied by an entirely new process Ozone is the antiseptic principle of every substance and possesses the power to preserve animal and vegetable structure indefinitely

There is nothing with the face of the earth that Ozone cannot preserve and the only process that will not preserve [illegible] that is

The value of Ozone as a preservative has been known but where to get it pure and in sufficient quantities and at reasonable expense and how to apply it has been the question

Microscopic germs are the real decayers in fact decaying matter in minute germs that develop and expand in animal and vegetable structures Ozone applied to the perishable article destroys all these germs and renders it sweet and pure

In our office in Cincinnati can be seen in operation every article that can be thoroughly preserved by this process and every visitor is welcome to come in to see it at work was with him and test it to his own satisfaction The secret of Ozone as a preservative We will also agree to forward, free of charge any article that is brought to us or sent to us in return it to the sender for the mere cost of postage and packing

Fresh MEATS can be kept sweet and pure for weeks without ice and will be found perfectly healthful when cooked Fish and oysters can be kept for days in a natural condition and shipped to Europe subject to atmospheric changes and return to this country in a state of perfect preservation

EGGS can be treated at a cost of less than one dollar a thousand and will keep in an ordinary room six months or more thoroughly preserved the yolk will retain its vitality, so that they can be hatched and will sell as fresh eggs Fresh apple juice can be put up so that when they were treated and will sell as fresh cider The advantage in preserving eggs is readily seen when are seasons when they can be bought for 8 or 10 cents a dozen and then sell them can be sold for an advance of from one hundred to three hundred per cent. One man with this method can preserve 5,000 dozen a day

FRUITS may be permitted to ripen in their native climate and then transported to any part of the world

The juice expressed from fruits can be held for an indefinite period without fermentation—hence the great value of this process for producing unfermented wine Cider can be held perfectly sweet for any length of time

VEGETABLES can be kept for an indefinite period in their natural condition retaining their color and flavor, treated in their original packages at small expense Wheat grains flour meal, etc will keep in their normal condition

BUTTER after being treated by this process will not become rancid

Dead human bodies, treated before decomposition sets in can be kept in a natural condition for weeks without puncturing the skin or mutilating the body in any way Hence the great value of Ozone to undertakers

There is no change in the slightest particular in the appearance of any article thus preserved and no trace of any foreign or unnatural odor or taste

The process is so simple that a child can operate it as well as the most scientific man There is no expensive apparatus or machinery required

Any person familiar with different articles such as cases meat fish etc, can be treated at one time, without additional trouble or expense

Perfection is nothing that Ozone will not preserve Think of every thing you can think of and then come with the guarantee that Ozone will preserve it beyond the condition you want it for any length of time If you will remember this it will save asking questions as to whether Ozone will preserve this or that article—it will preserve anything and everything you can think of

There is not a township in the United States in which a live man cannot make any amount of money from $1,000 to $10,000 a year that he pleases We desire to get a live man interested in each county in the United States in whose hands we can place this preservative, and through him secure the business which every county ought to produce

A FORTUNE

Awaits Any Man who Secures Control of OZONE in any Township or County.

A C Bowen Marion Ohio, has cleared $2,000 in two months $2 for a test package was his first investment

Woods Brothers Lebanon Warren county, Ohio, made $6,000 on eggs purchased in August and sold November 1st, $2 for a test package was their first investment

F K Hammond, Morristown, Belmont county, Ohio, is clearing $2,000 a month in handling and selling Ozone $2 for a test package was his first investment.

D F Webber, Charlotte, Eaton county, Mich has cleared $1 000 a month since August $2 for a test package was his first investment

J H Gaylord 80 La Salle st. Chicago is preserving eggs fruit etc for the commission men of Chicago, charging 15c. per dozen for eggs, and other articles in proportion He is preserving 5,000 eggs per day, and on his business is making $4,000 a month clear $2 for a test package was his first investment

HOW TO SECURE A FORTUNE WITH OZONE

A test package of Ozone, containing a sufficient quantity to preserve one thousand dozen eggs, or other articles in proportion will be sent to any applicant on receipt of $2 This package will enable the applicant to pursue any line of tests and experiments he desires, and thus satisfy himself as to the extraordinary merits of Ozone as a preservative After having thus satisfied himself, and had time to look the field over to determine what he wishes to do in the future—whether to sell the article to others or confine it to his own use or any other line of policy which is best suited to him and to his township or county—we will enter into an arrangement with him that will make a fortune for him and give us good profits We will give exclusive town-ship or county privileges to the first responsible applicant who orders a test package and desires to control the business in that locality The man who secures control of Ozone for any specified territory will enjoy a monopoly which will surely enrich him

Don't let this pass until you have ordered a test package, and if you desire to secure exclusive privilege we assure you that delay in a definite you of it, for the applications come in as fast as we secure every mail—many by telegraph First come first served is our rule

If you do not care to send money in advance for the test package we will send it C O D but this will put you to the expense of charges for return money Our correspondence is very large we have all we can do to attend to the shipping of orders and giving attention to our working agents Therefore, we cannot give any attention to letters which do not order Ozone. If you think of any article that you are doubtful about Ozone preserving remember that it will preserve it no matter what it is

REFERENCES:

We desire to call your attention to a class of references which no enterprise or firm based on anything but the soundest principles of business success and highest commercial merit could secure

We refer by permission, as to our integrity and to the value of the Prentiss Preservative, to the following gentlemen Edward C Boyce, member board of public works, E O Babcock, city comptroller Amos Smith Jr, collector internal revenue Wilson & Worthington attorneys Martin H Hagen and B F Hopkins, county commissioners W S Chancellor, county auditor, all of Cincinnati, Hamilton county, Ohio

The gentlemen are each familiar with the merits of our preservative and know from actual observation that we have without question

The Most Valuable Article in the World.

The $2 you invest in the test package will surely lead you to secure a township or county, and then your way is absolutely clear to make from $5,000 to $10 000 a year.

ABE ROBERTS
Proprietor of Mountaineer

More guests are being entertained at Manitou this winter than ever before

Mr Charles Wooding returned Friday from a protracted visit to Missouri

Mr L P Kepplar is acting as stenographer at the present term of the district court

A few more Italian days as yesterday will entirely obliterate the snow and do away with the sleighing

District court will probably adjourn next Wednesday at which time it is expected that all business will be completed

M E Church services at Court House Hall today 11 a m and 7 p m Rev W I Shutz pastor Sunday school at 3 p m

Charley Stearns who has been quite sick for several days past is recovering and expects to be able to attend to business again to-morrow

Mr Joe Thomas an old mountaineer has just returned from Gothic where he has been spending the summer working his claims in Rooster Bush

Mr George C Lanning one of the principal owners of the celebrated Excelsior mine located at Gothic is at his home in Colorado City for the winter

Mr Hogeboom lectures at the Cumberland Presbyterian church this evening there will be several professions of faith in Christ The meetings are growing more interesting each service

Mr H A Doe left for St Louis Friday night where he will remain during the winter He goes to accept a responsible position offered him by the Waters-Pierce Oil company of that city

Mr I H Vestal returned from the east Friday night and was present as a witness in the district court yesterday against James Martin, the man who drove the herd of sheep from his ranch last spring

Communion service at the Cumberland Presbyterian church at the morning service All members will be received Rev E I Bowers will preach at 11 a m and 7 p m A cordial invitation is extended to all

The morning express yesterday was delayed one hour and a half between Monument and Husted by drifted snow The owl train which passed through here at 3 25 a m was also detained at Monument owing to the same cause

Col De La Vergne has recently purchased Mr I Weber Adams herd of celebrated Jerseys said to be the finest stock of Jerseys in the west. Included in the purchase is the famous bull "Esso" whose half brother was lately sold at the east for $35,000

Mr Harvey Young, the artist, yesterday showed us a specimen of mineral taken from a mine in the Ashcroft district, of which he is part owner which assayed over $6,000 to the ton From what we can learn Mr. Young and his co-partners have a mine which is equal, if not superior, to Tabor's celebrated Iron O'Shaddle mine in the same locality

Mr I E Campbell who has been in the employ at the D & R G Ry here for the past year, leaves this morning for Corpus Christi Texas where he has accepted a position on the Texas Mexican Ry Mr Campbell leaves here with the best wishes of his late fellow employes While in this city he made many friends who all wish him success in his new home

Owing to increase in trade in the grocery department of Messrs Hooker & Stevens and their inability to give the bakery department as much attention as necessary, this department will be discontinued for the winter months All tickets will be received by Dunn & Parker on Pike's Peak avenue, to whom Messrs Hooker & Stevens recommend their customers

The pastor of each church in the city has been requested to preach a sermon to young men on Sunday morning, November 20th On the evening of the same Sabbath it is the desire of the Y M C A to hold a union gospel service at one of the churches, and invite the several pastors of the city and their congregations to participate and at which Mr Joseph Clark, Jr a successful Y M C A worker, of Denver, will be present Due notice will be given through the city papers if such meeting be arranged

Mr Judson P Stevens who has recently entered into copartnership with Mr J T Hooker, his brother of Mr H H Stevens of Messrs Stevens & House, also a brother of Mrs Channing Sweet He has resided in Colorado Springs some time but has never been actively engaged in business here He was for years engaged in business at Chicago and is a man of practical and thorough business knowledge The new firm will aim to keep up the reputation that the old one always sustained that of keeping the finest and best assorted stock of groceries in Colorado Springs

Judge I A McMorris, one of the Ute Indian commissioners, left yesterday afternoon for Washington He goes in response to a summons from the secretary of the Interior and was joined here by Hon. Otto Mears also a member of the commission, who will accompany him The object of their visit is to confer with the interior department on matters concerning the Utes and their new reservation at Uintah, Utah

Sergeants O'Keeffe and Dey start out this morning for a trip over the Pikes Peak trail They consider it doubtful whether they will reach the Peak on account of the deep snow
